You need to create several public folders on the server in the Singapore office to meet the following requirements:

Ensure that the public folders are available if a single Mailbox server fails.

Ensure that the users in the Singapore office connect to their local server to retrieve the public folder hierarchy.

Public Folders

Public folders can also be used as an archiving method for distribution groups. When you mail-enable a public folder and add it as a member of the distribution group, email sent to the group is automatically added to the public folder for later reference.

Public folders are designed for shared access and provide an easy and effective way to collect, organize, and share information with other people in your workgroup or organization.

Public folders help organize content in a deep hierarchy that's easy to browse. Users will see the full hierarchy in Outlook, which makes it easy for them to browse for the content they're interested in.

Public folder architecture

In Exchange 2013, public folders were re-engineered using mailbox infrastructure to take advantage of the existing high availability and storage technologies of the mailbox database. Public folder architecture uses specially designed mailboxes to store both the public folder hierarchy and the content. This also means that there's no longer a public folder database. High availability for the public folder mailboxes is provided by a database availability group (DAG).

A: Need to create a public folder mailbox in the Singapore office.

C: Use the Add-MailboxDatabaseCopy cmdlet to create a passive copy of an existing active mailbox database.

D: Use the Set-MailboxServer cmdlet to modify attributes on a computer running Microsoft Exchange Server 2013 with the Mailbox server role installed.

In Exchange 2007 and Exchange 2010, you could specify which users had access to specific public folders. In Exchange 2013, you can set the default public folder mailbox per user. To do so, run the Set-Mailbox cmdlet with the DefaultPublicFolderMailbox parameter.

This ensures that the users in the Singapore office connect to their local server to retrieve the public folder hierarchy.
